Save Money

- Reuse and recycling can be less costly than disposal
- Reusable materials may be less costly than new
- Donating goods to a non-profit may enable tax deductions

Protect the Environment

- Save landfill space
- Preserve natural resources
- Conserve energy -- reused and recycled materials consume less energy than virgin materials

Build our Community

- Help create jobs
- Assist non-profit initiatives, such as creating affordable housing for families in need or opportunities for unemployed individuals

Renovating or removing a structure?

Reuse and recycle building materials!

Save money while helping the environment and community. Recycle or donate building materials, and use salvaged items in your project.

Wood, shingles and other building materials make up about one quarter of all waste landfilled each year, state studies show. Much is recyclable or reusable.

It's Easy

1 Invite Habitat for Humanity, WasteCap or a similar organization to identify items they could harvest from your job site, such as:

- Appliances
- Brick
- Cabinets & counters
- Plumbing fixtures
- Doors & windows
- Flooring
- Home furnishings
- Light fixtures
- Lumber & wood
- Mantels, beams and other architectural elements

Reach out as soon as possible, to coordinate work with your project schedule.

2 Ask your contractor or waste hauler to take your remaining debris to a licensed construction and demolition recycling facility.
